ACROSS
1 Across: This company is similar to Pearson in that it sells many clinical assessments such as the Conners 4, ASRS, and CEFI. (Abbreviate your answer)
4 Across: Students often enjoy Block Design because it _____ more like a game than a test.
6 Across: The school psychologist's social skills group wasn't off to a good start when the students _____ their teeth in anger at each other. By the end of it though, their teeth were only showing because they were smiling from ear to ear.
7 Across: Common statement at eligibility meetings: "The student shows _____ for special education services."
8 Across: The nonprofit organization, Trainers of School Psychologists, is referred to as (Don't overthink this one!)
DOWN
1 Down: Some school psychologists have received gifts from coworkers during National School Counseling Week but didn't correct them because they _____ well. Besides, who doesn't want a free gift!
2 Down: Common phrase seen in online school psychologist groups: "_____ a free resource from…"
3 Down: In addition to catching up on evaluations, school psychologists love catching up on this as well.
4 Down: School psychologists conduct this for students who are frequently misbehaving. (Abbreviate your answer)
5 Down: The Developmental Delay (DD) eligibility category varies among states. In most states it's referred to as DD, in some states it's nonexistent, in Texas it's Non-Categorical Early Childhood (NCEC), in North Dakota it's Non-Categorical Delay (NCD), and in states like Georgia and Wisconsin, it's referred to as this. (Abbreviate your answer)